BRITISH AND AMERICAN TRUSTS.

"Free trade—England has trusts," is the favorite cry of Republicans who profess to be opposed to such combines, while they favor a tariff system which prohibits the importation of articles manufactured by them.

Of course there are trusts in England, but their average dividends amount to less than six per cent per annum upon the capital invested. In the United States a protected trust, it is going to "be demotion bow wows" if it realizes less than twenty or thirty per cent upon its investment, while some of them pay over a hundred per cent annually, as did the Standard Oil Company in 1898.

Trusts are one thing and protected trusts are another. They are bad enough at all times and in all places, but in England they are more aggravations of capital, which seek no other favors or advantages than such as a tariff system, and the owners are content with the returns upon their investment. While they are probably running to a considerable extent to small enterprises in their lines, they are not out to rob the English people at large, by such legislation as enables them to sell their articles for higher prices to their home people than they can obtain for them thousands of miles across the sea. English trusts are bad enough, but as compared with those of the United States, they are as a nickel-in-the-slot machine to a set of burglar tools, or to bring it nearer home, as a whiskey card trick to a Calendar Clock Safe swindle.

SHOULD STOP OVER.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is on his way west. It would be well worth his while to stop over a few days in Reno. More really valuable and practical information would be furnished him by those in charge of the Experiment Station at the State University, than he would acquire in six months travel in other parts of the country. He would at least ascertain that there is more uncultivated land lying out of doors in Nevada, which is capable of growing abundant crops of nearly all of the agricultural products of the temperate zone, than in any other half dozen States in the Union. He would ascertain that thousands upon thousands of acres of land can be purchased for less than one-tenth the price of less productive soil elsewhere, and that Nevada offers better inducements to farmers with small capital than any section on the North American continent. He would learn that one-half the amount of money appropriated to dredge some fishing smack in the Atlantic or Pacific coast, invested for water storage in Nevada, would benefit more people and prove more productive and profitable in a national point of view, than usually results from appropriations of ten times larger sums under the present system of internal improvements.

If the Secretary is on a tour of observation and information seeking, he cannot put in a few days more profitably or to better advantage than right here in the town of Reno.

KNOWS NO REMEDY.

Elsewhere in this issue of the JOURNAL appears a report of an interview with Senator John P. Jones in New York. The Senator confesses his inability to cope with the trusts problem, although in a general way he is opposed to them. Probably the Senator had an idea that the tariff of "protection" was the proper remedy for the evil. This would appear as a fair and reasonable inference from the fact that he voted for the Dingley law which taxes all articles manufactured by the monopolies to which he says he is opposed, at such rates as to render their importation impossible. As the Senator's method does not appear to be a bowling success and as he acknowledges his inability to suggest any other remedy, why wouldn't it be a good idea for Nevada to hunt up some resident of the State of eligible age and other constitutional requirements, and let him try his hand at the invention of a trust-breaking machine? It would at least be well enough to think over the matter, and having arrived at a conclusion, possibly a man may be found among the ten thousand voters of the State, who could pass constitutional muster in the matter requisite to enable him to hold down a chair in the upper house of our national Congress. The suggestion is worth thinking about at all events.

MORE TROOPS.

By the army reorganization bill passed last March the President is authorized to raise a volunteer army of 35,000 men. The regular army consists of 65,000, which constitutes a force of 100,000. This is one-third too small, according to the estimate of General Otis, for the work cut out for this government in the Philippines, provided, of course, that all peace proposals coming from the insurgents are rejected in the future as they have been in the past.

At present the war department is not prepared to handle or equip more than nine new regiments, but in time the whole reserve force will be organized. And it would be just as well to have it done at once.

The JOURNAL agrees with the Salt Lake Herald that this policy of fooling along with the insurrection and frittering away time is what brought on the trouble, and it will keep it up for many a year unless some radical change is effected.

EVERY Democratic convention that has been held this year, and every Democratic gathering of any significance has either endorsed Bryan as a presidential candidate or expressed its preference for him in emphatic terms. Even the Tammany Fourth of July mass meeting, which was supposed to be a sort of boom for Van Wyck, was stamped over to the Nebraska ex-Governor James S. Hogg of Texas, who brought down thousands of applause, with his exhortation upon the silver-tongued orator of the Platte. It isn't a case of straw, but stacks of them which indicate the choice of the people for president in 1900.

Dr. Stubbs Elected.

The nominating committee of the convention of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations yesterday presented its report recommending Dr. J. E. Stubbs of the Nevada State University for President of the association, and the report was unanimously adopted. The convention is being held in San Francisco and has been in session three days.

Business Enterprise.

The professional card of W. C. Lamb, stenographer, appears in the JOURNAL. Mr. Lamb is a University graduate and has had wide experience as a professional shorthand reporter and typewriter. His knowledge of law and legal forms, learned from long association with the courts, render his services of far more value to any professional man than those of the ordinary typewriter and reporter, however competent he or she may be. At present Mr. Lamb is official court reporter to the Second Judicial District of Washoe County, and also stenographer to the U. S. District Attorney.

As Walter is a born and raised Nevada boy, no one envies his success, and being possessed of all the characteristic energy of Nevada youth, his success is sure to be long continued.

It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all its dangerous consequences. ## SENATOR JONES INTERVIEWED.

He Doesn't Know How the Trusts Should be Treated, But Thinks the Gold Standard is Responsible for Them.

Senator John P. Jones was interviewed in New York on the 5th instant and the press dispatches quote him as saying:

"The Democrats certainly will make a strong fight against trusts in the next Presidential campaign.

"Just how the subject should be treated I will confess I do not know at present. It is easy enough to shout 'Down with the trusts,' but what are you going to do about it?"

"Take the one that is most often made the target—the sugar trust. You go to the members and they say, 'Yes, we own all the sugar refineries; we are incorporated according to law.' Now, will we pass a law that a concern shall own only so much property, or what shall we do?"

"What difference would it make to us if there were a thousand independent refineries and as many middlemen?"

"I am strongly opposed to trusts. The exact remedy for the evil is not clear to me. There would be no trusts if it were not for the gold standard, the shrinking currency and falling prices."

"Does the anti-trust idea for a Democratic issue mean that Bryan will be the candidate?"

"Certainly. It will be Bryan and McKinley or again. That does not mean that the silver issue will be shelved, either. It will be rather overshadowed probably by the anti-monopoly movement. There are many people who will never understand the currency question, and in the face of a semblance of prosperity the silver issue may be submerged for a time. It will not stay down, however."

"How is the Philippine situation regarded in the west?"

"In California, where all the troops have been shipped, the people have made money out of it, and may want the Philippines. I cannot see what anyone else can want of them. I think the question is weakening President McKinley in other parts of the west."

From the School of Mines.

In this issue will be seen the advertisement of Carl Stoddard, assayer. Mr. Stoddard is a Reno boy, where he was born and raised. He has proved himself not only to be well up in the theory of assaying, but to be thoroughly practical in its application. The Nevada State University School of Mines is recognized everywhere to be the best college course of its kind in the west. A graduate therefrom has never been found lacking when his knowledge of practical problems in mining was put to test.

Mr. Stoddard has acquitted himself honorably in the subjects of chemistry and assaying, and with the experience he has gained from work outside the University, he now stands before the people of Reno ready and willing to demonstrate to them what has so often been proven elsewhere, namely, that Nevada's School of Mines has no superior anywhere on the Pacific Coast.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1898, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expectorate something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. ## Erroneous Statement.

There is no movement on foot, as last evening Gazette states, to purchase the Pothoff livery stable property from the Bank of Nevada. The bank does not own the property nor has it anything to do with it. It is owned by someone in San Francisco, and although the matter has been talked about, the JOURNAL is reliably informed that no proposition has been made for the purchase of the property for town purposes.

A New Periodical.

On the 20th of July will be issued the initial number of an illustrated monthly magazine, devoted principally to Nevada and her interests. "The Nevada Magazine," as it has been named, is already an assured success, for the enterprise has been well received by the people of Washoe county and the subscription list is already large. Excellent half-tone illustrations of scenes in Nevada are to appear in connection with descriptive articles which will fully delineate the wonderful resources and hitherto unnoticed beauty of the agricultural regions in our battle-born State. Much attention will also be given the famous mining industries of Nevada.

The current report that C. D. Van Duzer, editor of the new magazine, has given up work of this nature and is devoting himself entirely to the practice of law, is erroneous. Mr. Van Duzer is energetically pushing the enterprise, which he has had in mind for some time. J. F. Haley, the business manager, is at present in Reno superintending the compilation of the first issue. The new periodical is being published at the JOURNAL printing establishment.

The leading article in the contents of the first number is entitled "Heno, the Metropolis of Nevada," by the able pen of F. H. Norcross. The volume contains over one hundred pages, made up entirely of well written editorials, splendid original short stories and glimpses of life in Nevada.

The Reduction Works.

The clang and rattle of hammers and chains at work putting machinery in to position at the Electric Reduction Works still continues. The big dynamo has been put into position and electricians are wiring the mill.

The large smelter has been repaired and last Thursday a test charge of about 400 pounds of ore was run. The result was very unsatisfactory. Sufficient heat could not be generated to properly smelt the charge which consequently congealed into a solid mass. Mr. Burton, the owner, expresses himself unfavorably towards the smelter, which he says is not modern. "I shall fix it up and give it one more trial," says Mr. Burton, "and if it does not work all right, I shall tear it down and build a new one. It is built square, and square smelters never act as well as round ones.

"The arrangement of the air blast pipes is also faulty. The two outlets are directly opposite each other, so that two jets of cold air blow against each other, diminishing the effect of the blast. Although I do not like the arrangement I will give it another trial.

"I expect to have the works running in good order some time next week, but there are so many things to repair and replace that we are kept very busy and hardly know what to fix next. I do not know what ore we shall run first."
